

DEMAND INDICTMENT OF KING CONSTANTINE

Greek Cabinet Will Ask Allies to Show Where and Why Ruler Has Erred.

ATHENS IS APPREHENSIVE

Pleasantry to Decide on Return of Former Hellenic Monarch Will Be Held Today—Newspapers Comment on Note of Disapproval.

(By Associated Press)

ATHENS, Dec. 4.—Premier Rhathis stated definitely today that the plenary vote on the return of former King Constantine would be held Sunday. He also asserted that the Cabinet would resign if the present arrangement is not accepted.

Constantine, the ruler added, still is counting on returning and the Cabinet will issue a note to the allies, asking them to withdraw Constantine's note of disapproval and also his demands.

When he was notified Demetrios Gounaris, Minister of War, The latter hurriedly left his office to call a conference of the Cabinet.

The note disapproving the return of King Constantine caused consternation in this city.

Pleasantry May Be Delayed.

The pleasantries at which the people of Greece have been looking forward to the approval or disapproval of the return of Constantine may be delayed, as the arrangements were perfected yesterday. After a trip to take prominent Greeks to Varna, where they would meet Constantine on December 13.

Editorials reflecting opposition to the return of King Constantine are appearing in this city. Commenting on the British attitude regarding the ruler, Patrik says:

"Those who accused Venizelos of selling Greece to strangers are now among the most ardent supporters. It also appears the French, under General Wrangel's army against the Turks, removing the Greeks thereby giving the Russians a hold on Constantinople. That same flag has also been replaced by the Sultan in the Dodecanese Islands."

"It is clear the allies wanted the kind of note that would acknowledge the principle that must control nations," says the Athene. "We are now under the necessity of writing our note, favoring with the allies upon whom we depend our future conduct. King Constantine, or any other monarch would be impossible chief, and it is for the government to always tell the truth."

Athens is not particularly worried about the present arrangement.

Cabinet Confers Until Late.

The Cabinet conferred until late hours yesterday, and the ministers expressed the hope that with the return of Constantine an accomplished fact, the diplomatic and financial difficulties of the Greek government would be smoothed over.

One of those latter is that France may at the end of December call in large loans to which she has renewed every three months.

Reorganization of the Cabinet with the arrival of the new Minister of Marine, or Demetrios Gounaris, at present the War Minister, as Premier has been proposed, but it is not certain.

When the allied ministers visited the regent this afternoon in the expectation of receiving comforting words from Constantine, whose messages go direct to Tarsus, they were met by a note which had already reached the Premier, when he found no advice had been received from the former monarch.

When the allied ministers tonight formally presented the supreme council of defense, and the need for its abrogation of the agreement of 1918 by which Greece's finances are under Anglo-British control, and without whose consent no bank notes may be issued, try were blocked crowds Altering from Constitution Square. They shouted, "Work! work!" when the Italian minister, Signor Montagna, arrived, the people regarding him favorably because of his reported friendliness to Greece.

Go to War Ministry.

Later the crowds proceeded to the War Ministry, which has been crowded with ex-officers and others seeking reinstatement and carried on a demonstration lasting an hour. The city lights were purposely darkened, and with a slight rain and the crowds straggled down University Street past the American embassy, where they were joined by ex-service makers in the city for work.

Demetriou, chairman of the country's commission on relations with religious bodies in Europe and by the commission on relations with France and Belgium, headed by Arthur J. Brown.

Dr. Brown's report described the situation of European churches as critical, saying that the religious persecutions which are widespread in evidence today, sometimes of Roman Catholics of Presbyterians, of Baptists, but always upon occasion of Jews, present one of the most revolting exhibits and outrages infamies of current history. It makes the business of our American churches, unscathed by war, strong in financial resource and influential regarding public opinion, important and imperative with relation to the sister churches in Europe."

The report of the commission on relations with France and Belgium, said the aid that should be given to the Protestant churches of those countries was not a charity but a duty, because "it is absolutely indispensable not only to the reconstruction of Europe, but the moral and spiritual conditions of the world that those churches be made strong and vigorous."

The commission reported it as highly desirable that the existing interdenominational character of this aid be maintained and that American churches should recognize the autonomy of French and Belgian churches and respect their judgment in questions constantly arising.

Following a statement of famine conditions in central and southeastern Europe by Herbert Hoover, the country voted to send a message to the Protestant churches of the United States asking immediate gifts to save the lives of millions of starving children.

On behalf of the city or more friendly visitors who spent the last summer in Europe representing various church interests, the Rev. Francis J. McDonnell, pastor of Central Church of the Disciples of Christ, New York, corroborated Mr. Hoover's statement of conditions.

DR. RUPERT BLUE SAYS WOMEN OF EUROPE ARE IN POOR HEALTH, DUE TO UNDERNOURISHMENT.

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, Dec. 4.—Emigrants from Europe to the United States in the next few years will be limited only by the availability of shipping facilities or restrictive legislation, said Dr. Rupert Blue, former surgeon-general of the United States Public Health Service, on returning to Paris today from an inspection trip.

None of the allies in the great war, the President recalled, had suffered more severely in proportion to their numbers than the Armenians and other peoples of the Near East. Recent renewal of onslaughts against Armenia by the Turkish Nationalists, the Kurds and the Bolsheviks, the President added, had placed 1,000,000 persons in imminent danger of starvation unless aid was offered them.

He urged that the American people contribute generously toward their advancement.

of Near East Relief, incorporated by Congress. Since this organization was formed it has raised and disbursed with great economy and efficiency more than $1,000,000 in cash. A nation has been saved and at least 1,000,000 persons are alive today who would have perished but for the generosity of Americans.

"The 1,000,000 orphans who are now being cared for by Near East Relief and wholly dependent upon it for all the necessities of life, will furnish the future leadership of the Near East. We dare not let them perish now."
